

NOTICE TO CUSTOMERS
Please read this if you purchased
DigiTrak Battery packs from January through April 2010

We have discovered a manufacturing defect in some DigiTrak Battery Packs (Model DBP) used in Mark series and Eclipse systems, which could potentially pose a safety or combustion hazard. You should not use, store or keep an affected Battery Pack. We will replace the Battery Pack for you. To arrange for your replacement and return of affected Battery Packs, please contact your local DCI area office (see following page) or field representative.

There are two ways to determine if you have an affected Battery Pack: if the purchase date occurred between January 1st – April 15th 2010, or if the Battery Pack has one of the five dates codes shown below. DCI will pay the shipping costs (contact us at your local DCI area office).

The Date Code can be found on the white label affixed to the battery pack (highlighted in yellow for illustration purposes). The date codes with the potential defect are:
